

STUDENT BODY GOES TO POLLS THIS MORNING

CANADIAN CAMPUS

By Lloyd Williams
A C.U.P. Feature

Vive l'Université de Montréal! French-Canadian students went on the warpath the other day to get the Montreal public's interest aroused in completing the deserted, half-finished buildings of the university. Untouched for years, the shells of the proposed buildings are an eyesore on the lovely face of Mount Royal.

In their endeavour to get some action from the province and public, the students paraded through city streets to the new site, where they held a program of prominent speakers before crowds of visitors. It is to be hoped that their campaign will succeed, for at present the university, second largest in Canada, is scattered all over Montreal in inadequate, poorly-equipped buildings.

What a Uniform Can Do

Across Canada, C.O.T.C. uniforms for drilling students are making their appearance, with curious results. Although army uniforms are ALWAYS the right size, unfortunately some students don't fit. It's still a uniform, though, and because of it, British Columbia males are already assuming a more dominant air with the opposite sex. Failing to notice the change, one luckless co-ed dared to ask a sergeant, "Have you got the time?" "Sure Baby," cracked back three Stripes, "if yuh've got the nerve!"

Can't It Happen Here?

We always imagined Western as a liberal, Joe-College sort of college. Now we know. Last week's plaintive reports were issued by its grounds superintendent. We quote: "Vandalism resulting from nitely wood-pitchers has reached new peaks of destruction." It seems that persons motoring along University Drive in the evening are occasionally distracted by something, and have gone off the road to knock down several young trees almost impossible of replacement. This year, damage caused by romantic couples reached one thousand dollars, from torn campus lawns, damaged trees. Wailed the sup, "The larger trees, which could injure a car have been carefully avoided."

From now on, Western lovers will risk being caught in the act by campus patrols.

Novel Pictures McGill As Scene of Mystery

A former editor of the McGill Daily recently publicized his Alma Mater by making it the scene of a novel written for a national news weekly supplement. The plot, woven about the campus, involved secret research, a Latin-American-Italian spy, New York gangsters and the R.C.M.P. In between, he pictured student life at dances, coke dates, and beer pushing. As the Mounties won the fight, two college couples paired off for life. One of his heroines

Hollywood Blamed By Beecham For Displacing English Drama

Noted English Conductor Speaks to Canadian Club

By L. E. A.

Sir Thomas Beecham doesn't like American movies. That was the essence of an address he gave before a wide-eyed Canadian Club audience yesterday afternoon, started out to describe "Modern Music and Music Makers," underwent a transformation to "The Decline and Fall of Thespis" and ended up in a diatribe against the mechanistic ersatz-culture of today which has countenanced the passing from public favor of masterpieces by Shakespeare and Marlowe.

The great Beecham needs no introduction. For pungent invective and contrary opinions there's no one like him on the public platform today. Aside from catering to the constipation of Britishers by manufacturing pills, he is internationally renowned as conductor of the London Philharmonic Symphony and is a specialist in interpreting the music of Mozart and Sibelius. He's here to conduct Les Concerts Symphoniques tonight, on the rebound from a trip to the Antipodes where critics were dismayed to find that the celebrated musician considered them small time bores and the local musicianry hog butchers.

Sir Thomas' crusade against the Philistines out Hollywood way runs something like this: the great British classics have been supplanted in popularity by "the terrifying, humiliating, ear-splitting, shrieking American cinema." That these flowers of British theatrical art are "dead, damned and buried" so far as the British Dominions are concerned is deplorable. How thinking people can be lured by this "fanciful fairyland of nothing" and its characters: "the absolutely sub-human creatures of utter insignificance" is a mystery to the worldly musician.

What to do about it? Establish in Canada, as the spearhead of a wider movement, a home for English drama. The old things aren't always the worst things, Beecham thinks. To him, radio reproduction is little short of distortion. Quotation: "my voice coming through a loudspeaker would sound somewhere halfway between the moan of a crocodile and the roar of a young buffalo."

Unquestioned highspot of the talk was a series of grunts and groans produced by Sir Thomas in an attempt to convey whither laxities in modern English speech were leading. It brought to mind Charlie Chaplin's guttural gargling in "The Great Dictator."

False romanticism and sentimentalism came under the Beecham axe for their share in the present international muddle, present-day British freedom was dismissed as "curtailed twaddle," and the decline of white influence in the Far East was laid at the doorstep of suffering Hollywood.

ing its regular bi-monthly meeting tonight at 7.30 o'clock in the music room of the Students Union, at which Mr. Wood will give a lecture on night photography. Mr. Wood is illustrating his lecture by a demonstration—he will take the photograph, and develop and print it during the meeting.

LATINS CONSIDERED BY PERUVIAN STUDENT

The customs and peoples of South America will be considered by Reynaldo Gubbins when he addresses the Club Hispanico on "Latin America in General," tonight at 8.15 p.m., in the Union Grill.

Gubbins, a fourth year engineering student, is a native of Peru, and will treat the practices and language of his own country as well as of the other South American nations.

An informal singsong of popular Latin American melodies will be one of the features of this meeting, which is open to all students interested in Spanish.

Old McGill '41 Receives New Originalities

Biography Deadline Extended to Wednesday
By J. N. H.

According to an interview with the Managing Editor of "Old McGill 1941" it was stated that this year's autobiographies are filled with stimulating humour and subtlety. Originality that never came out of the mouths of babes is being voiced right here on this campus. Such delightful grin-splitting quotations as:

"But my face I don't mind it for I am behind it It's the ones in the front get the jolt!"

are being found in many of the write-ups.

Subtle humour is introduced with: "The man who's always waiting for something to turn up might start on his own sleeves." There's nothing like being candid, apparently—for: "Some cause happiness wherever they go; Others whenever they go."

It is originally like this that makes one believe that freedom of thought is not at all dead. This is the dye that darkens the gray hair of editors.

The Annual Board report gratification that their plea for originality has not been in vain. They announce that there are a few biographies yet to be received, and as arrangements with the printers necessitate immediate receipt, the remaining biographies must be returned at once if they are to be included in this year's publication.

COMMERCE LUNCH SET FOR THURSDAY

Prof. Culliton Will Speak on Business Conditions Present and Future

Commerce students will have their first luncheon on Thursday in the Union Grill room at 1 p.m. the executive of the Faculty of Commerce announced last night.

Special interest is drawn to the fact that Professor John Culliton of the department of economics, will be the guest speaker. He intends to make a survey of business conditions today, and will then proceed to outline commercial possibilities in the near and far future. He intends to give an account of the possibilities in commercial life during the war and of those thereafter.

DR. R. MCCLURE GIVES ADDRESS TO MED GROUP

Speaker Stresses Interdependence of Nations Today

DEFINES PROBLEM

Says Solution of Present Chaos Lies in Closer Fellowship

Last night at St. James United Church, Dr. Robert B. McClure, Canadian medical missionary and field organizer of the Red Cross in Central China, in his address to a meeting sponsored by a group of medical men in Montreal said: "We live in a shrinking world. Everything around us has become streamlined but as yet we have a hard time streamlining our thought."

Dr. McClure said that the problem of 1940 is how to live in a modern world with our fellow men. If this were solved, he said, a lasting peace would result. A group of men realized 150 years ago that the world was shrinking and that what the other man thought was meaning more and more. The world has not yet ceased to shrink and the problem has not yet been attacked seriously.

Three "International Bridges."

There are three bridges in international affairs, stated Dr. McClure. The first is that of Commerce; which has not improved friendships between nations. The second was that of diplomacy and history shows that friendly relations between one country and another did not last forever. The third bridge was that of Christian Fellowship. Dr. McClure stated that for those who did not feel that this was the best bridge should give a better alternative, saying "Religion is the core of modern culture and the culture of a land is reflected in its religious attitude."

War Awakens China.

The speaker showed how the war against Japan has had an awakening effect on distant parts of China. Two years ago in one town located on a spur road leading from the "Burma Road" to

Arts' Christmas Dance To Be Held in Union

Saint Nicholas himself will preside at the annual Arts' Christmas dance, to be held at the Union ballroom on Saturday, December 7th at 8 p.m.

A spirit of exciting festivity will prevail, and a program of dramatic entertainment and glorious pageantry is being planned. Dance music will be supplied by Lew Adams and his orchestra, the latest musical find of the campus.

Tickets will go on sale shortly, and may be purchased from Bill Gentleman or at the Tuck Shop. The price of the tickets will be $1.25 a couple, refreshments included.

Douglas Hall, Engineers Desire Femininity at Prom

By M. B. W.
"Soft lights, sweet music, and a girl really looking like a girl." This is the rapturous manner in which a Douglas Hall resident, one who apparently has had enough of saddle shoes and tailored suits nonsense, described his idea of the Junior Prom. A less poetic, though equally enthusiastic engineer mulctured worriedly about writing home for an allowance advance. These are two opinions, representative of the stronger sex, which have been echoing around the campus for more than a week. Early qualms about holding the Prom in the Gymnasium have been overcome by the realization that having the Prom take place on the campus

DR. BONN GIVES FIRST LECTURE

Derides Hitler's Idea of Superiority of Race

Explains How Germany Lost First Round of War to Russia

Last night in the first of a series of four lectures on "A New World Order" held in room 44 of the Arts building, Dr. Bonn introduced the subject by outlining the map of Europe before 1914. Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, Turkey then formed a vast and powerful block of which Germany considers itself the stronghold. Plans existed to expand Germany's domination. The establishing of an independent Ukraine which the Germans considered one of its protectorates, was to be used to reach across the Black Sea to the Caucasian oil fields.

Plantation Schemes.

The Germans, Dr. Bonn observed, in forcing Poles and Jews to live under very unfavorable conditions in a limited area, expect that the high birthrates of these people will thus rapidly decrease and the race finally die out. There comes in the fundamental conception of Nazism the "Plantation scheme." The Germans constitute a primitive peasantry which always needs more land. Their aim is the Ukraine which they intend to settle with German landowners after having chased out the Russians. So far Hitler has not achieved this. He has paid a heavy price for Poland, allowing Russia to have the other half of Poland and thus a common frontier with Hungary, and himself being cut off from his ultimate aim, the Ukraine. Thus Germany can be considered to have lost the first round of this war to Russia.

Probabilities.

In closing, the speaker said Russia knows that it would not be able to withstand a powerful German

Arts Debating Finals Take Place Tonight

The finals in the Arts Debating preliminaries are being held at 5 p.m. tonight in Room 12, in the Arts Building. The topic will be "Resolved that hereditary titles should be granted in Canada," and it will be upheld by second year, represented by B. Baillie, M. Weiner, L. Horlich and D. Kisilenko. The negative will be taken by third year, who will have J. Riddle, H. Farmer, A. MacDonald and G. Swinton as their representatives.

CO-ED DEBATERS ARGUE EQUALITY

Freshettes and Sophomores to Debate Women's Rights Friday

The question of femininity versus feminism will be raised again when the R.V.C. inter-class debaters consider the resolution that "Women's ever-increasing demand for equality is detrimental to the social and domestic stability of the nation," on Friday afternoon, in Room 13 of the Arts Building.

Freshettes, Penelope Chipman and Margaret Currie, will uphold the resolution, while the sophs, Jean Mitchell and Stephanie Zupenko, will present the negative argument. This is the first debate in the series for the R.V.C. inter-class trophy, which was won last year by the class of '42.

The annual Impromptu Public Speaking Contest, sponsored by the Women's Debating Union, will be held on December 13, and is open to all women students of McGill.

Engineers Hold Fete Thursday at Union

The Engineering Undergraduates Society will hold their annual banquet on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. This year the banquet will take place in the Union Ball Room in order to conform with the request of the Principal that all activities be confined to the campus. Mr. Hugh Crombie, a former president of the Graduate Society will be the guest speaker. Representatives of the Engineering Undergraduates of both Varsity and Queen's will be present and it is hoped that both the Chancellor and Principal will also be there.

Prizes will be awarded for the summer essay contest, and a floor show and sing-song will end up the evening. Tickets at $1.25 may be obtained from Fred Barton's office, class representatives or from the executive.

McGill Debating Union Society.

There will be a meeting of the Standing Committee tomorrow at 6 p.m. in the Music Room of the McGill Union.

The following are expected to attend: Messrs. Henderson, Stalker, Dailey, Carey, Ward and MacDonald, and Miss Hill.

Eighty-Five Candidates Run For Campus Posts

Five Students Are Already Elected By Acclamation

This morning at nine o'clock, polls open for students to cast their votes for representatives to the Students' Executive Council, the Scarlet Key Society, and the Red Wing Society.

Thirty-six positions are to be filled. Each faculty, and R.V.C. elects a representative from its junior year to the Council. The Scarlet Key Society is composed of two groups—Class A, composed of men in their Junior year, and Class B, men in Sophomore year. Two women from each of the three first years must be elected to the Red Wings.

There are eighty-five candidates for election. The following students have been elected by acclamation: For the Students' Council: Dentistry—Albert Danforth; Theology—Cyril Powles. For the Scarlet Key Society, Group A: Architecture—Anthony Lewis. For the Red Wing Society, second year resident representative—Jean Curry; first year representative—Billy Powell.

A list of candidates follows:

For the Students Council:
Arts & Science: Thomas C. Mulligan, F. William Long, Howard M. Patch, Harrison Bennett.
Commerce: Richard H. Stevenson, Walter F. Johnson.
Engineering: Alec Glen, Robert A. Reid, Norman F. Retallack, Thomas C. Daly.

Law: Lawrence C. MacDougall, Albert O. Cadbois, Gordon Donnelly, George F. Clarke, Walter B. Miller, Graham Gould.
Medicine: E. A. Stewart Reid, Herbert F. Owen.

Royal Victoria College: Louise Astbury, Mary Eddy, Judith Jaffe, Beatrice M. Moreau.

For Group "A" Scarlet Key Society:

Arts and Science: Kevin L. Hargadon, Arthur R. Jardine, Gordon K. Greaves, F. Donald Smith, George Swinton, Vincent Young.
Commerce: Earl H. Smith, Jack H. Bailey, Albert C. Griggs, Bruce Russell, Peter Sandilands, T. L. Chown.
Dentistry: Albert Danforth, John Hibbard.

Engineering: David Haviland, Thomas C. Daly, Allen C. Findlay, W. T. Simpson, R. F. Stapells, D. G. Rowe, G. Stenning, R. Holden, W. L. W. Taylor.

Law: Jack Martin, Allen J. L. Mills, Lawrence G. McDougall.
Medicine: W. F. A. Davies, Kenneth Campbell, Grant Donnelly, John Hermann, J. T. Graham.

Group "B" Scarlet Key.
Those nominated for Group "B" of the Scarlet Key Society include the following—

Arts and Science: Raymond G. Rose, Alex Scrimber, Robert R. Kingsland, Tom Davies.
Commerce: J. H. Reckett, J. K. Power, R. Allan.

Dentistry: Charles H. Dundas, Ralph S. Edmison, Frank L. Burns.
Engineering: George E. Backer, James B. Anderson, Alwyn King, Peter Hall, John R. Ufford, Gerald Leonards, John Dall, Charles Perault, James D. Anderson, Justin O. Miller.

Medicine: William K. Macdonald, Frank W. Cleary, Bruce Fletcher, Hubert Borsman, Frank Leckie, Ronald M. Fyfe.

Red Wing Nominations.

Vote Today
Student representatives for authoritative campus positions are to be elected today. Those men and women who are chosen to represent the students of McGill on its Students' Executive Council and its honorary societies will face the task of running student affairs during the year to come. Many difficult decisions will have to be made by these representatives and it is impossible to over-emphasize the importance of the positions to be filled. It is to be hoped that every member of the Students' Society will exercise his franchise.

We who live in democratic countries feel so sincerely that our mode of life is far superior to that of the aggressor nations that we are fighting a war to preserve that mode of life. Democracy must find its best expression among the educated people of the university, and we refuse to believe that the average undergraduate is entirely ignorant and oblivious of the men and women who are running for office.

The Students' Executive Council has the responsibility of administering all student finances and acts as an intermediary between the student body and the University authorities. It has direct supervision over most important campus organizations and it acts as a disciplinary court for students if required. The best suited persons only should be entrusted with this work, considering at the same time previous executive experience and knowledge of campus affairs.

The Scarlet Key and the Red Wings Societies fulfill worthwhile duties in their service to the university at meetings and special functions, and they also look after the interests of visitors to McGill. It should be kept in mind that membership in an honorary society such as these should be a reward for work well done in previous years.

Remember that the polls open at nine, and above all that they close at two o'clock. VOTE TODAY.

Praenionitis
"Forewarned is forearmed." Many first year students have recently found letters addressed to them on the letter board in Bill Gentleman's office. These letters contain statements to the effect that the students in question have failed in one or more sessional examinations, and should see their advisors. There is nothing threatening about these announcements; it has long been the policy of the various departments to issue about this time of year some report as to the standing of the first year students.

They are however a warning—a warning to be considered. It is a common fact that the first year at McGill is one of the most difficult, since the pupil not only is faced with a new curriculum, but must form new habits of note-taking and studying. The degree of success which the student attains in May will be largely a measure of the judgment that he exercises now. For this reason, the recipient of the notice should take a mental inventory to see why he failed in that particular exam. The first year of college is the most important academically, by far. Here the groundwork is laid upon which the material of the later years is built. If the elementary courses in the various arts and sciences are mastered, then the more advanced work will come easily, with no necessity for reviewing fundamentals.

In regard to advisors, some students have an erroneous conception in this respect. They imagine advisors as cool, impersonal people wishing only to criticize and flout their ego; furthermore, it has been too frequently felt that the scholar who seeks the cause of an advisor is spineless or unable to make his own decisions. This is very wrong; the advisors are men and women of the teaching staff who have been selected by the administration not so much for proficiency in their respective fields but rather for their understanding of student problems. They will be glad to help you, and will, in fact, surprise you by the amount of time they are willing to give. After all a professor's task of lecturing becomes rather boring after several years of the same lectures—his pleasure is passing on the benefit of his experience to others personally. So, see your advisor, tell him your problems and what might have seemed like a difficult situation will be greatly simplified.

HATH NOT A JEW, by A. M. Klein; Foreword by Ludwig Lewisohn; Behrman's Jewish Book House, New York, 1940; pp. 116.

It is not often one finds a poet who is content to stay within the prescribed limits of his ethnic group. Still rarer is the phenomenon of a poet whose knowledge of the background and tradition of his people is as broadly comprehensive as is that of Abraham M. Klein. Had he so desired, there is no doubt that Mr. Klein could very easily have written of things other than those connected with Judaism and Jewish lore. However, he has elected the traditions, the foibles, the joys and the sufferings of his people as his medium. And he has done an excellent job of it.

As Ludwig Lewisohn says in his preface "Klein had the luck, of course, to be born into a family and into an environment in which the lore and tradition of our people were things so alive that the quiver of this aliveness, so tense that it can humorously turn upon itself, has accompanied all his years." It is this aliveness, which the author has now transferred to his verse, that pulsates through many of the pages of this little volume. Klein has managed to endow the simplest and the most complex alike with a beauty of phrase and an appropriateness of expression which, if nothing else, makes the book worthwhile. When one adds to this the fact that the book is a storehouse of intimate glimpses into the workings of the Jewish mind it becomes evident that A. M. Klein has perpetuated for English-speaking people something of which they knew nothing at all or, at best, very little. It is tribal legend and folklore set to rhyme; it is the eternal cry of the Jew expressed in verse; it is the quintessence of clanishness universalized for all to see and wonder.

Although in spots the calibre of the poetry falls below the standards established by the author in the first pages of the book, especially in his poem "Child Harold's Pilgrimage", nevertheless the volume has a cohesion and an entity which make it worth reading and worth owning.

—L. N. P.

(Editor's Note:—Abraham M. Klein is a Montreal lawyer. He is the author of a column in the Jewish Daily Eagle and a contributor to many periodicals. He is a graduate of McGill.)

THE STONE OF CHASTITY by Margery Sharp; Little, Brown and Co.; pp. 280; $2.50. Coming from the same pen that sired the delightful "Harlequin House" and "The Nutmeg Tree", Margery Sharp's latest contribution to the field of the light novel, "The Stone of Chastity", does not fall short of its predecessors. It is a tale, told by an author with great good humour and unusual wit.

Professor Nicholas Pounce discovered an old English legend about a stone, imbedded in a river, which had unerring powers of determining the chastity, or absence thereof, of any woman who walked on it. What is more to the point, the professor also discovered the stone. His attempts to prove the truth of the legend, using the wives and daughters of a small and decidedly unsympathetic English village as his guinea pigs in the experiment constitute the action of the book.

Miss Sharp's writing, perhaps necessarily, has a certain quality of superficiality. She never seems to dig below surface attitudes. Generally, her characters are themselves so improbable that any analysis of them would be ridiculous. Nevertheless, on occasion she has timidly gone ahead and created a personality, apparently quite by accident, as she pays as little attention to her real creations as possible. In the "Stone of Chastity", there are aggravatingly brief sketches of characters about whom the reader would like to know more. Among these are Miss Hyatt, Mrs. Pounce, and Mrs. Jim. One cannot help feeling that the book might have been enriched had it not been written with such spare detail.

In spite of this, "The Stone of Chastity" is an uncommonly amusing, neatly written novel. It is extremely entertaining and undemanding book-fare.

Not About Men?

By H. B.

The Santa Claus Parade, one of the highlights of the season's activities for all kiddies and students alike, which took place last week makes us realize all too well how near Christmas is. Not that we don't like Christmas. Why, everybody does—that is, those who still believe in Santa Claus; but somehow it's the few weeks before this joyful event which is the disturbing part. For the month of December around College has the notorious reputation of being the month of work. At least, it has always seemed so to us. Term papers, essays and tests take one through the month at top-notch speed. And so, make way for December, work and Xmas. . . .

A Woman for Democracy.

We recently read of the coming visit to Montreal of Mrs. Dorise Neilson, only woman member in the House of Parliament. She is to deliver a lecture here on Democracy. Mrs. Neilson was formerly a school-teacher, who married a farmer in the west. She and her husband and children lived for a time in dire poverty, during the wheat droughts of the west. She early proved herself to be interested in politics and in democracy, and her election as representative to Parliament came at a time when she felt she could do something to help the plight of the western farmer. She won distinction for her maiden speech in Parliament, in which she made a plea against poverty "in a great nation." In our estimation, she is truly a remarkable woman. . . .

"Our Town" et al.

We remember when we read "The Bridge of San Luis Rey", we thought we had never read anything like it before for sheer intellectual beauty; when we read "Heaven's My Destination" we couldn't imagine it to have been written by the same man; and then when we saw "Our Town" we were thoroughly convinced of the author's versatility. But when we had the pleasure of interviewing the author of the foregoing, Thornton Wilder, we realized the tremendous scope of his mind and his immense range of interests. It was rather interesting to hear him speak very unassumingly and very unaffectedly of Gertrude Stein, Alexander Woolcott, Ethel Barrymore, Ernest Hemingway et al as his intimate acquaintances. In a short time we covered a range of topics—Sociology and post-graduate work, music and its function in our society, the art of writing, politics and numerous other subjects. He impressed us as being a clean-cut American, with an intelligent face and a keen mind.

Mother Instinct?

Human Interest Scene of the Week: A co-ed was walking down the Campus the other day with her arms laden with books—sounds odd but true. A little curly-headed tot was playing in the snow with her mitts off, exposing her hands to the cold. The co-ed immediately put down her books, put the child's mitts on for her and hurried on. It looked sort of human from where we were. . . .

Agriculturists at Play.

Word reaches us that two McGill co-eds were seen wandering around the men's residence at Mac College—very innocent-like just inspecting it in a friendly way. But the residents who are not accustomed to see women in their sanctum sanctorum, made quite a lot about it. The errant co-eds, however, decided McGill men were good enough for them and so they came home. . . .

Knee Socks Tabooed.

Vancouver.—(CUP)—Knee-socks, latest fad in feminine leg-wear which has shocked all cultured male university students throughout the Dominion, will disappear from the UBC Campus soon, if efforts by the Engineers prove successful.

For the past two months the males on the Point Grey Campus writhed at the sight of the ?!?!? knee sock, which has not only disfigured the feminine shank but also made it harder to look at. The Engineers can stand the disillusionment no longer. To atone in some (Continued on Page Four)

MUSIC NOTES

Casavant Society Announces Series.
The Casavant Society has released its season's prospectus this week containing the list of eminent organists who will play during the series of church concerts sponsored by this organization. First in the series is the eminent French musician, Joseph Bonnet, organist of St. Eustache's Church in Paris. This concert will be played on the organ of the Church of the Messiah.
Others to be heard in the series later in the winter are Arthur Egerton, Carl Weinrich, Georges Lindsay and Paul Callaway.

The Issues At Stake.

Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir,
As a member of the Engineering Undergraduate body I feel compelled to back up the letter of Mr. King who so nobly and clearly showed the issues at stake in this "conscientious objection" business. I can not write as a military expert, but I do feel that the country must prepare all its male citizenry for what may come to our own shores. What we read in our daily papers should show us of the dangers of lack of preparation. Some members of the student body believe that the M.R.T.B. is an end in itself. Actually it should only lead to a more extensive service in the active force. Any who do not realize this, will perhaps feel a rude awakening if the undergrads do not volunteer after taking the training for one or two years they will become dulleth by the monotony of the repetition of the annual training.
I remain your obedient servant,
JOHN QUINN.

Defenders of Democracy.

Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Mr. Editor:
The summary suspension of Mr. Gordon Stewart from the University raises a fundamental issue, which, in view of the attention already given to the matter in these columns, calls for emphasis. The University authorities presumably acted to remove the sole conscientious objector, (there are others at present taking the compulsory military training under tacit protest), in order to ensure a homogeneity of thought and action within the University. Can a University truly continue to function as a University, after it has achieved such perfect homogeneity of thought among its members?

One of your correspondents, Mr. Ken B. Mathewson, argues that in a University as elsewhere, the sanction of the majority justifies any action. Apart from the fact that the action of the University authorities goes far beyond this and denies the right of existence to the minority, I should like to contend that in a University the only kind of majority that should be recognized is that of a unanimous search after the Truth. If the University succeeds in creating such perfect sameness, or majority dominance as Mr. Mathewson supports, where shall we look for that "play of mind upon mind," the freedom of which Universities have guaranteed since their founding?

Further, one might point out that it is precisely this state of regimentation of thought and action which characterises the very political philosophy against which we are, as Defenders of Democracy, supposed to be engaged in a life and death struggle.

Yours sincerely,
JOHN KAREFA-SMART,
MED. 1.

APPEAL FOR FREEDOM

Editor-in-Chief,
McGill Daily,
Sir,
For the third successive year, I am forced to add my appeal to those of others for the continuation of freedom at McGill. I have campaigned in the past for freedom of action and freedom of speech; now my efforts are directed at freedom of conscience.

Further words than those of Mr. Powles and Mr. Lloyd-Smith are, I think, unnecessary. I should like only to go on record as being in sympathy with their sentiments.

Yours,

WILLIAM GOODMAN.
Three more of my fellow students have asked me to add their names to mine. They are: Stewart R. Cooper, Paul H. Niloff, Matthew J. Waterman.

And then there's the co-ed who thought a cursory glance was a look of profanity.

Anaemia.

Anaemia, properly defined, is a defect in the quantity or quality of the blood. There was a time when anaemia could almost be described as a fashionable complaint. Chlorosis (the green sickness) was an extremely common form of anaemia in young girls. It has almost vanished as a disease now, due, many believe, to a more hygienic and sensible way of living. Actually we don't know why it has declined so markedly, but it is fortunate for the modern young lady that it has. Swallowing and collapse, so frequent among the ladies of the Victorian era, were not imaginary. A large number of women just didn't feel well because of a deficiency of iron in the body causing anaemia.

Anaemia is still with us to a degree particularly among women. The commonest type is that associated with a defective iron balance. The normal male uses very little iron from his body and therefore needs little in his food. The normal female, however, periodically loses an appreciable amount in the menstrual function, and therefore requires iron in the diet to replace that which is lost. When the supply of iron fails or the power to assimilate it is poor, anaemia results. A recent survey in Montreal of 1451 women of the low income class showed that 43% had some degree of anaemia. Some of the women were profoundly anaemic, yet they were doing their daily work, after a fashion, quite unaware of what was wrong with them. The type of anaemia associated with lack of iron usually responds satisfactorily to treatment with iron.

Iron deficiency anaemia is not by any means the only type of anaemia. Another type is the well known pernicious anaemia. The treatment of this disease is one of the triumphs of modern medicine. Less than a dozen years ago a patient suffering from this condition was condemned to a lingering death; no hope of recovery could be held out to him. The brilliant research of Minot of Boston has resulted in a form of treatment which in the majority of patients returns them to normal and keeps them so almost indefinitely. There appears to be in pernicious anaemia a lack of a substance which is found plentifully in liver and liver extracts. Once this deficiency is made up the anaemia usually disappears and the blood continues to be normal so long as the treatment is maintained.

The discovery of liver and liver extract as a treatment for pernicious anaemia is an additional argument in favour of periodic examinations. Individuals may suffer greatly impaired health from this disease for many months without being aware of the cause. Indeed damage may be done to the nervous system which is irreparable if the disease is not discovered in good time.

Inter-company Hockey League Commences Today

COMPANY A MEET STIFF OPPOSITION

B COMPANY STRONG
Several Experienced Players in Lineup
TEAMS LOOK GOOD
Macdonald College to Have Team in League

Inter-company hockey begins today. At 12.30 p.m. "A" Company will take to the ice to meet the threat of what is reputed to be a strong entry from "B" Company. From all sides come reports that the teams are in mid-season form and also that the calibre of the hockey being displayed promises a snappy league.

"B" COMPANY RUMOURED STRONG

Last night Bruce Crutchfield, playing coach of "B" Company, expressed confidence that his team would be one of the best in the seven club league. He pointed out that several of the players had long since proven their ability with McGill teams of other years. The club has shown lots of class in practice lately, and the young coach promises that they will be battling every minute that they are on the ice.

Walter Johnson, dependable goalie of former McGill teams, is the playing coach of "A" Company. Walter, too, expressed confidence in his club, which also boasts well-seasoned hockey talent.

MACDONALD TO BE REPRESENTED

The second game of the week will bring together "E" and "F" Companies on Thursday at the same hour. On Friday "C" and "D" Companies too will get their baptism of fire. Thus all six of the local teams will have seen action before the coming week-end. That leaves only the entry from Macdonald College to account for. The Aggies will get into the thick of it in about two weeks time when ice becomes available at St. Anne's. They are, of course, an unknown quantity as yet, but there is no doubt existing here that our sister school will come up with a real challenger. And these visiting games should add interest and enjoyment for the pucksters of both colleges.

The line-ups for today's game:

"A" Company. "B" Company.
W. Johnson...goal...R. Fyfe
T. Chown...defence...A. Cameron
F. Winsor...defence...J. Patrick
G. Hebert...centre...B. MacDonald
Bud Burrows...forward...Red Keely
J. Keay...forward...B. Crutchfield
Ian Barclay...alternates...A. Farmer
E. Smith...L. Holden
P. MacFarlane...J. Kennedy
B. Lorimer...M. Gurtler
E. Grant...J. McMartin

Players of "C" Company are reminded that they will have no practice today due to the scheduled game between "A" and "E" Companies.

INTERCOMPANY CAGERS BATTLE IN FAST TILTS

Independants 2 Continue Winning Streak Over Platoon 23

PLAYERS SHOW STYLE

Platoon 21 Defeats Platoon 7 in Closely Contested Match, 17-14

Unless a plague suddenly hits McGill University, there doesn't seem to be much doubt about Independent 2's chances of coping the title in the inter-company basketball league. Last night at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium, they proved that their 44-22 victory over Macdonald College on Saturday was no fluke when they handily trounced Platoon 23 by the score of 34-9.

Fielding a well balanced team the Independents started on the offensive and never stopped going until the final whistle. Bob Holdredge with 12 points and Mumford with 10 points were the scoring standouts for the winners. Graham was the star for the losers, getting seven out of his team's nine points.

PLT. 21 DEFEATS PLT. 7.

In the other game played last night Platoon 21, without substitutions, were victorious over Platoon 7 by the score of 17-14. It was a close hard fought battle right to the end.

For the winners, Leonards and Lithwick were best. Leonards was responsible for seven points of his team's total, while Lithwick accounted for six. For the losers, Braye and Vernon showed to best advantage accounting for eleven of their team's fourteen points.

Both referees, Don Robinson and Bob Pearman, are to be commended for their excellent handling of last night's games.

C COMPANY GAIN RACQUET VICTORY

D Company Provide Only One Player for League Tilts

Last night C Company was scheduled to oppose D Company in an Intercompany Squash League match. The result was that a full squad turned out for the former team while only one showed up for the latter. This deplorable state of affairs should stop as soon as possible. After all intercompany sports were established for the benefit of the student body and they should take full advantage of this and turn out en masse for the various activities. Up till this year the students always clamoured for a gymnasium, and now that there is one students should take full advantage of its varied facilities.

C COMPANY VICTORS

In the only game played yesterday evening W. Palmer of D Company lost out in straight games to the C Company's representative C. Church in a match marked by long rallies and excellent defensive play. The score was 15-7, 18-16, 15-9. The other players who were present and ready to play for C Company were: J. Bates, C. Standish, R. Ball and R. Elgie. The score in points at the conclusion of the match was 15-0 in favour of C Company.

INSTRUCTION HOURS CHANGED

It was announced yesterday that the hours during which Ted Greene will give instruction have been changed from Wed. and Fri. evenings at 8 p.m. to Mon., Wed., and Fri. afternoons at 4 p.m. All students who wish to learn the fundamentals of the game are strongly advised to turn out for this instruction for the game of squash once these fundamentals are mastered is one of the best and fastest of all indoor sports.

The next Intercompany squash match is scheduled to take place this Thursday night at 8 p.m. when B Company will oppose F company.

Net Players Compete in Mixed Badminton Tournament Tonight

The first mixed Badminton tournament at McGill this season will get underway tonight at 7 p.m. in the gym where a large turnout is expected to take part in this sport which is attracting more and more students at the university. Players have been enjoying informal competition for some weeks now and will be out tonight to show the experience which they have gained. Mr. Ted Greene, who is acting as instructor at McGill for these future badminton stars, has been giving regular periods of instruction during which many new players have learned some of the fundamentals of the game.

With the completion of the new gymnasium students at McGill have obtained one of the biggest badminton playing surfaces in the city and the inauguration of a mixed round robin tournament should prove a complete success.

Players may choose their partners before the time of the tournament but this is not necessary as players who have not chosen a partner by game time will be allotted a partner by the Committee. As there has been a considerably larger turnout of male players in the past than there have been co-eds the difficulty of pairing up all the players who enter will probably arise. The committee however wish to stress the fact that a few courts will be reserved for non-competitive play on which such players who fail to obtain a partner may enjoy the evening.

As soon as players report to the Board they will be grouped into groups of six or seven couples and may begin play as soon as the group is completed. In this way the Committee hopes to play off a match between each couple of a group after which finals will be run off between each group.

The following rules have been drawn up with regard to the play:

- 1) Play will commence as soon after 7 p.m. as possible and not later than 7.30 p.m.
- 2) Lists will be posted in R.V.C. for girls to sign and all who sign these lists are expected to turn out without fail.
- 3) Partners may be chosen before hand otherwise the Committee will pair competitors as it sees fit.
- 4) All players must report to the Board immediately when they come on the floor, dressed and ready to play.
- 5) If there are more boys than girls the first to report to the Board will get first chance to play. These will be able to play on courts reserved for the tournament while players who fail to obtain a partner may play on courts which will be reserved for non-competitive games.
- 6) The tournament will be divided into six or more groups, the teams in each group playing each other and the winners going into the final which will be played on the same night if time permits.
- 7) Games will be limited to 10 points.
- 8) Players should begin play as soon as they go on the court so as to lose as little time as possible.

SWIMMING MEET TO BE HELD ON MONDAY

Lists have been posted in the locker room of the gym for all those who wish to enter the Swimming meet to be held in the Knights of Columbus Pool on Monday, December 9.

So far the entries for this meet have not been very numerous although many have signified their wishes to enter verbally. It is absolutely necessary that everyone who wishes to compete in this meet enter their names and company under the races in which they wish to take part as soon as possible.

As with all other events at McGill this season this meet is being run on an intercompany basis with points earned in the meet going toward the Company totals.

An ever increasing interest is being shown in swimming at McGill this season with the change in athletic organization and it is expected that a large turnout will compete in the varied events scheduled for Monday's meet.

The schedule of events for the Swimming is as follows:

1. 50 yards free style.
2. 75 yards breast stroke.
3. 100 yards back stroke.
4. 4 x 25 yards relay.
5. 100 yards free style.

Each team is composed of 4 doubles teams and 2 singles players. These will be numbered 1, 2, 3 and 4, and 1 and 2 in approximate order of their proficiency. Each doubles team and each singles player will play his opposite number. Winner will be best two out of three games in each case. There will thus be six matches each time two companies meet. Two points will be scored for each doubles game and one point for each singles game won. All points so scored will be added to the regular Company total.

BADMINTON—MIXED ROUND ROBIN

The first mixed round robin tournament will be played today starting at 7.30 p.m. All men and women interested are asked to report at 7.30 sharp. Players may choose their partners in advance or not as they wish.

SWIMMING AND WATER POLO:

Following the ever-increasing interest in swimming, an Inter-Company Meet has been arranged for December 9th. It is confidently expected that this will draw a big entry, and if enough are interested it is hoped to promote an Inter-Company Water Polo League. Plans for both these aquatic events are well under way and only student co-operation is needed to set them going. Anyone interested should sign up at once for the Meet, as those in charge of the arrangements are anxious to gain some idea of the volume of entries. The lists will be posted in the Men's Locker Room. Water Polo enthusiasts are reminded that they can practise on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 5.30-6.45 in the Knights of Columbus Pool, while swimmers can practise at the same time on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The program for the Swimming Meet is:
1. 50 yards Free Style.
2. 75 yards Breast Stroke.
3. 100 yards Back Stroke.
4. 4x25 yards Relay.
5. 100 yards Free Style.

"H.M.S. PINAFORE."

It is axiomatic among lovers of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas that the perfect wedding of words and music is the core of every one of their works and the essential element that gives each play its flavour. Especially is this true of "H.M.S. Pinafore." For Pinafore is lacking in a plot structure that is all-important and exciting per se. It has the spontaneous complications or the suspense of, say, The Mikado or The Pirates of Penzance. It is this fact that makes it difficult for an amateur company to tackle successfully, because more than in most of the G. and S. plays, perfect co-ordination, timing, and diction are here requisite so that the proper Savoyard spirit may be conveyed.

This job the Y.M.H.A. Operatic Society has accomplished in largely successful manner. The Y.M.H.A.'s Pinafore is on the whole sprightly, good-natured Gilbert and Sullivan—a fact that is due in no small measure to the expert direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norris, ex-Savoyards themselves. The performance has a scope and a freedom of movement that is surprising on a stage so comparatively small.

Outstanding among the individual performances is unquestionably that of Henry Bloom as the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., First Lord of the Admiralty. Mr. Bloom brought his part an easiness in both singing and acting that was a delight. His diction and dialect were true Gilbert and Sullivan.

Estelle Fish, as Josephine, the Captain's beautiful daughter, provided with her charming voice and manner a well-balanced performance. Bernard Figier as Ralph Rastrow was less successful, his voice appearing obviously strained and his diction not up to par, especially in a Gilbert and Sullivan production. Alfred Krasnick as Captain Corcoran was adequate when he sang, but his histrionics were none too convincing.

Bill Aaronson was more than adequate as Dick Deadeye, the repulsive seaman, while Esther Lewis was delightful as Buttercup, the bumboat woman.

The chorus was well trained, working with finely tuned discipline. The nautical setting was imaginatively executed and afforded a pleasantly salty background. Throughout the performance opportunities were rarely lost to take advantage of those little nuances that do so much to create the charm that is Gilbert and Sullivan. This is again to the credit of the directors.

attack, therefore its policy is shrewd. If Russia were defeated, Germany would receive the Ukraine and a British blockade would do them little harm. But unless Germany is able to defeat Britain, it will not be able to defeat Russia. They have employed most ruthless methods in Poland and thus proved that they would carry out what they had promised, and they will carry on doing so if they get a chance; but they will not get the chance if the Democracies don't permit themselves to become scared by Hitler and Mussolini waving blueprints.

C' Company Total 80

The Independents have scored 10 points and MacDonald College 40 points in the games played to date.

As can be seen from the above scores one or two defaulting teams in a Company can play havoc with the Company Totals. Each Platoon should at least hold up its own end by scoring 15 points. This can be done by simply showing up for games on schedule since 5 points are given just for playing a game and regardless of whether you win or lose Platoon 14 defeated Platoon 24, 22-8.

Platoon 4 defeated Platoon 13, 41-7.
MacDonald 1 defeated Platoon 25.
Independent 2 defeated MacDonald 2, 44-22.

TWO GAMES CANCELLED.

Two games scheduled for tomorrow have been cancelled due to important lectures for medical students; those are the Ind. vs. Pl. 10 game, and the Ind. 5 vs. Pl. 26 game. Due to the cancellation of these games the floor will be available for pick-up games.

power of his opponents if it is an important race and attune his effort so that he will be able to outwit all his competitors.

Of course something may go wrong and he will be thrown upon his ability and experience and quick thinking to overcome the new obstacles presented or finish in front of an unexpected dark horse

SCM LAYS PLANS FOR CONFERENCE

Prof. Gerald Cragg Will Address Commissions in Strathcona Hall

The Student Christian Movement is planning a week-end conference, to be held in Strathcona Hall, on Saturday, Dec. 7th and Sunday, Dec. 8th. "The subject under consideration" announced Brenda Wilson, Chairman of Conference Committee "is the possibility of moral action for an individual or for groups in society today; the force which they confidently believe will force every sensible and vain co-ed, and what co-ed isn't—refer to Chuck Graham on "Anti-Co-eds"—to remove what two University of Toronto students described as "A blot on an otherwise perfect sculpture."

Passing Parade.

As the comely co-eds wander in the Science Building to their labs or lectures, they encounter united, unkind, and scathing criticism from the Redshirts. The knee-sock-sporters run a gauntlet of virile suggestions, most printable—"Take those . . . things off."

It is a matter of record that the number of shanks sporting knee-socks since the beginning of the campaign have decreased. Possibly that is due to the fact that the Science Ball is only a few weeks away and that a date to the Ball is the highest honor in any co-ed's life.

DR. R. MCCLURE GIVES ADDRESS

Tibet the arrival of a pack train of ten animals was an occasion for the whole populace to turn out. Now, in 1940, the average for 24 hours is 640 trucks passing through. At the junction of the two main roads the blank corners of the four houses facing were black washed and, with local clay dried into sticks, the latest radio bulletins were chalked up because there were no newspapers.
